In Search for Liberating Love and Wisdom in the Face of a Pandemic: An Interfaith Reflection

JOHANNES GUTENBERG
UNIVERSITÄT MAINZ

Thinking beyond divine punishment and conspiracy theories as explanation given to the pandemic this lecture argues for the need to embrace liberating love and wisdom in response to the pandemic in an interfaith mode employing Aloysius Pieris's prophetic theology of religions. Love that liberates can emerge only by realising the afflictions of millions, particularly the poor who have no choice between health and livelihood.

Knowledge that enlightens can arise only by asking the question why health is not a public good. An interfaith response to the pandemic cannot be formed without this realisation and questioning locally and globally.
